NEGATIVE THINKING REMINDERS

- 1. RELATIVE THINKING: You look at things in a "bigger" way without recognizing your feelings. You think it will be hard to learn math, although you're actually very smart. You don't know how to solve a problem of your own invention.
- 2. SENSATIONALIZED NEGATIVE EVENTS: Some events seem like disasters, but they're not. You think you're going to fail your class, but you'll pass.
- 3. OVERGENERALIZATION FROM ONE EVENT: You make small problems big. You think you'll never get any more math right because you got one wrong.
- 4. ABSOLUTE THINKING: You see things in only one way. You think you're "really smart" because you got a math problem right.
- 5. NAME CALLING: You call yourself or others names. You think you're "really smart" because you got a math problem right.
- 6. PERFECTIONIST THINKING: You believe that things have to be a certain way. You see the back of a chair and think, "The back of chairs should be like that." You think you're "really smart" because you got a math problem right.
- 7. SLIPPING: You believe yourself, or others, that things that aren't really true.
